

Is Uphold Bringing Back the XRP Debit Card? Latest Card Updates

If you are asking “Is Uphold bringing back the XRP debit card?”, the current situation is more positive than a simple “coming back” announcement. Uphold currently offers an Uphold Debit Card with XRP rewards, so users do not necessarily need to wait for a separate XRP-branded debit card to return.

XRP Rewards Are Available

The current Uphold Debit Card offers rewards paid in XRP. The Elite Card can provide up to 4% back in XRP on eligible purchases, while the Essential Card offers XRP rewards under its applicable terms.

Current Uphold Debit Card

Uphold currently lists both an Essential Card and an Elite Card. The cards can be used anywhere Visa is accepted, subject to eligibility and applicable terms.

XRP Can Be Used With the Card

Uphold's current card program supports spending from eligible cryptocurrency balances, with XRP included among the supported assets. The exact rewards depend on the card plan and funding source.

Eligibility Requirements

The current U.S. Uphold Debit Card is available to eligible U.S. residents, although certain states and territories are excluded. Users also need an Uphold account and must satisfy applicable verification requirements.

Different From the Older XRP Debit Card

Older Uphold materials reference an XRP Debit Card rewards program. However, the current card offering is structured around the Essential and Elite Uphold Debit Cards rather than a separately marketed XRP-branded card.

Check Current Card Availability

Because card programs and rewards can change, review the current card terms and eligibility requirements before applying. Uphold's latest card information shows that XRP rewards are currently part of its debit-card program.
